A BRANCH RAILROAD—APPEAL TO CITIZENS

[From the Olympia Tribune]

We confess to a feeling of no little mortification at the apathy manifested by our citizens in regard to railroad connection We have always supposed them possessed of a larger share of public spirit and enterprise than is exhibited in this matter and I scarcely know how to account for their lack of interest in a question of such vital importance to them and to our town Like questions in other communities invariably create the wild est excitement, and are not allowed to rest until settled in accordance with the wishes of the people We are inclined to believe that no people ever more heartily desired railroads than do those of Olympia, and that none attach to them greater value yet why they should seemingly be so averse to making any effort to secure connection by this channel and thus remedy ever the isolation to which they will be subjected without it is a mystery to us.

It is needless to remind our citizens of the eagerness with which the people of other localities have grasped at the offer of the Northern Pacific Railroad Co., to construct branches in consideration of land donations They know that as well as we do But they do not deem the example worth following Why? Perhaps they think the railroad must come to Olympia whether they offer any inducements or not If so they are greatly mistaken Nothing is easier than to avoid this place, in constructing the road and in choosing between Olympia and rival points we doubt not the Railroad Company will weigh carefully the relative value of the donations at those points Let not our citizens therefore delude themselves with this shallow idea; Rely upon it, the only security for Olympia is in giving, and in giving freely and generously

Give us the first railroad terminus on Puget Sound and we care not how many railroad termini are created elsewhere in future The first terminus, though it be the exclusive terminus for only two or three years, will so stimulate the growth of Olympia as to insure for it a career of prosperity ever after On the contrary, let that terminus go to some point ten or twenty miles distant, and the town will sink into a state of insignificance and poverty from which no amount of energy hereafter can resurrect it Many of its present citizens will desert it, as rats desert a doomed ship. (Pardon the simile; no reflection is intended) As before stated, even the mourners would be found at the more fortunate point

We trust that the property holders of Olympia and vicinity will examine this subject in its true light, and act accordingly

Huron and Ontario Canal

A Toronto dispatch of the 31st March contains this

A special meeting of the Board of Trade was held on the question of sending a deputation to co operate with the Western delegation in pressing the claim of the Huron and Ontario Canal on the Joint High Commission They resolved that no deputation should be sent and that the arguments for and against the work may be summed up as follows For the work An expenditure of $50,000,000, its computed cost shortening of the sailing route west by 370 miles occupation and probable colonization of 10 000 000 of acres of wild lands by English capitalists, the development of the vast region along the route of the projected Canadian Pacific Railroad the passage of vessels of 1,000 tons burthen direct from Chicago to Liverpool, via Humber river The gross dues of the canal are reckoned at (supposing it to be in working order to day) $1 400,000 annually, and in 1880 at $2 0[illegible],034, and the fact that the canal would be fed with business by 700 000 square miles of territory between Lake Michigan and the Rocky mountains, not counting the region in the valley of Red River, and the Saskatchewan, enough to form fourteen States as large as Ohio Against the work. Its utter inutility and absurdity, ten million acres of land for the construction of the work which would be worthless; dishonesty of inducing foreign capitalists to invest forty million dollars in a project which would never pay the fact that supposing the canal will be serviceable foreign grain would be cheapened to the destruction of our own trade the fact that experienced lake captains say that they would not use the canal, for good and sound nautical reasons, even if they were allowed to go through free the fact that vessels could not sail on it at a greater rate of speed than two miles an hour, the fact that, while it would shorten the present route 170 miles, there would be no saving of time, owing to the slowness of navigation and difficult lockage

A Sensation in the Senate

ENCOUNTER BETWEEN GARRETT DAVIS AND BEN BUTLER

WASHINGTON, March 30.—The Senate was enlivened to-day by an incident of a decided ly sensational character, in which General Ben Butler figured conspicuously which created considerable comment on the floor and in the galleries Mr Davis of Kentucky was about concluding his remarks, when he observed Butler, who was sitting on Mr Thurman's desk and gazing on him intently Mr Davis became restive, and speaking with his usual warmth and earnestness, suddenly faced Mr Butler and continued his argument against the credibility of the exaggerated Ku-Klux stories, saying These factions charges are originated by parties to effect the coming elections. The Legislatures to be elected are to chose one third of the members of the Senate, and it is with a view of using this political capital for these diabolical and devilish ends that these vile and slanderous stories of outrages emanate from the brains of political scoundrels and thieves When Mr Davis resumed his seat Mr Butler still continued his steady gaze, and Mr Davis returned it defiantly They glared at each other until it seemed probable that a personal collision would ensue. Mr Stevenson had taken the floor but the attention of the Senate was wholly engrossed by the bellicose attitude of Davis and Butler For at least a minute they looked into each other's eyes and then Davis turned and addressed Butler as follows

What do you mean by attempting to brow beat me in that way You are a d—d scoundrel. I repeat it, sir, you are a d—d scoundrel Mr Butler is said to have replied I don t know you sir and don't care for you and I don t want to speak to you ' Mr Wilson walked over for the purpose of averting a collision but Butler after looking in another direction for a time went over to the Republican side and soon after left the chamber It is said that Mr Bayard suggested to Davis, while the latter was speaking to appeal to the chair and rid himself of the annoyance of Butler but Mr Davis replied that he was able to take care of himself and did not desire the protection of the Senate

IT NEVER EXPLODES—Mr Gray an ingenious gentleman of Sussex county Delaware invented a new, non explosive burning fluid and invited his friends to come and witness a test of its qualities He gathered a small circle around a barrel of the fluid in a grocery and to prove how non explosive it was he stirred it with a red hot poker In six seconds the inventor and his friends were seen to emerge from the roof

The New York Times says "It is largely owing to General Grant that we are to day a great people, and not, as the Democrats wished to make us, a collection of small governments and 'independent States' Posterity will rank General Grant among the greatest commanders of his age —the most indomitable in adversity, the most magnanimous in victory."

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN]

EASTERN DATES TO APRIL 10.

EUROPE.

Desperate Fighting around Paris

LONDON, April 9—5 P M —There was desperate fighting around Paris on Saturday The advanced batteries of the army of Versailles bombarded Porte Maillot steadily, their shells falling in the Champs Elysees.

An engagement took place at Villejuif, and there were skirmishes at Bagneaux and Bellan court All the southern forts have resumed firing The government forces are gaining ground in front of Montrouge and Bicetre A decisive struggle is expected at the gates of the city

It is reported that M. Theirs is adverse to a foreign entrance into Paris by fighting, and he prefers to reduce the city by investment.

At ten o'clock last night cannonading at Porte Maillot and other points continued with great violence

To day a conflict occurred among the insurgents themselves, in the Rue de Faubourg St Antoine in consequence of the refusal of a port on of the National Guards to march beyond the walls

Bismarck Favors the Restoration of Napoleon.

LONDON, April 9 —The Observer says that Bismarck is still favorable to the restoration of Napoleon

The Bombardment Continues

LONDON, April 10—1 0 A M—The government forces are encamped in Courbevoi and occupy the bridge of Neuilly The barricading in the village and at the bridge by the communists has been forced

The artillery at Porte Maillot and Portes des Ternes and Mont Valerien and the batteries at Courbevoi maintained an incessant bombardment all day Their shells fell beyond the Arc de Triomphe

The Nationals have evacuated the Champs Elysees and occupy the adjacent streets

Efforts of the communes to force citizens generally to take up arms, so far have failed

Later Dispatches via London

BEFORE PARIS, Sunday night via LONDON, 4 30 A M, Monday —It is reported that Versailles troops crossed the Seine at Asnieres, and are concentrating at Longchamps

Arbitrary arrests are increasing in number in the city Many more have been thrown into prison Church services are generally suspended and the doors of the Cathedral of Notre Dame have been closed

Gen Bergeret is under arrest

The party of conciliation are redoubling their efforts They had a public meeting in favor of peace, at which members of the commune were present

Additional barricades have been erected in the quarters threatened by the besiegers

Shells Falling throughout Paris.

PARIS April 9 —There has been a cannonade all day The Champs Elysees is completely deserted The National Guards are hiding in cross streets seeking protection from shells which fall in every direction, many close to the American Legation

The result of forty eight hours cannonading is that the Versailles troops have crossed the Seine and occupied Sablonville and Longchamps

The drawbridge and door of Porte Maillot are broken.

Measures of the Versailles Government

LONDON, April 9 —The Moniteur reports Delescure under arrest Also that the ambulance service in Paris is insufficient, and the wounded are suffering.

Domiciliary visits will be made to morrow to seek for refractory Nationals

A recent decree has been modified so as to make military service compulsory on all between the ages of 19 and 40

Flotilla gunboats have been sent from Havre up the Seine to assist in operations against Paris Siege guns have also been dispatched from Havre and Cherbourg for an attack against the forts occupied by the insurgents.

Insurgent Nationals in Marseilles have been disarmed without resistance and imprisoned.

WASHINGTON CITY

Joint High Commission.

WASHINGTON, April 9 —The Joint High Commission was in session yesterday All reports agree that the negotiations are progressing favorably The statement comes from well informed sources that the proposed basis of settlement of the questions pending between the Commissioners are as follows

First—Contemplates the privilege of American fishermen to fish within parts of Canadian waters from which they are now excluded and to land and dry fish and clean nets etc For this privilege the United States is to pay Canada a certain sum of money

Second—Certain general international principles are laid down, covering those of neutrality by which claims arising from depredations of the Alabama, Shenandoah etc, are to be adjusted

Third—Commissioners are to be hereafter appointed to adjust matters on the basis proposed and it is further said that this basis has been sent to England for approval

Some of the commissioners have no hesitation in reporting that they will probably by the 1st of May submit the conclusions of the commission to the two governments

Legislation against the Ku Klux

The Senate Committee on Judiciary were in session five or six hours yesterday on the House Ku Klux bill. Various laws were examined in order to ascertain whether they or the bill conflicted Objections were made by several Senators to that part of the measure authorizing the President to suspend at his discretion the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus The majority agreed to the general principles of the bill, and unless they shall change their minds by Monday, it will be reported to the Senate without amendment Many members of both houses think if the Senate makes amendments the passage of the bill will be delayed, if not imperilled, as to its final passage and hence it is probable it will be passed by the Senate in precisely the same form in which it passed the House

Prominent colored citizens have made arrangements to serenade Senator Sumner and General Butler, after the passage of the Ku Klux bill in compliment to their efforts in its behalf It is the opinion of some Senators that the bill will pass their branch of Congress on Wednesday next

Congratulating the President.

A large number of letters have been received at the Executive Mansion congratulating the President on his complete vindication by the report of the San Domingo Commissioner Prominent gentlemen have called on him to express their feelings to the same effect.

A New Amnesty Bill

WASHINGTON April 9 —Representative Hale of Maine will to morrow introduce in the House and press to a vote a general amnesty bill removing all legal and political disabilities imposed by the 14th amendment from all persons except members of Congress and officers of the army and navy above 21 years of age who left the Federal service to engage in the rebellion and members of original secession conventions Persons availing themselves will be required to take the oath of allegiance to the United States and lists of such persons will be laid before Congress at the opening of each session

The First Poet Laureate

[From Once a Week]

When the office of poet laureate was first instituted is open to much doubt but the roll of court poets may be said to really commence with Edmund Spenser of Faerie Queene celebrity Sir Philip Sydney was Spenser's best friend and to him indeed he owed the first step of his progress in life The story of Spencer's first introduction to Sir Philip is differently told Some suppose that the friendship commenced by the poet presenting Sydney with the ninth canto of the Faerie Queene, others by his dedication of the Shepheard's Calendar, but the first idea carries with it a good story that may be worth repeating

When Spenser had begun to write his Faerie Queene he made it his business to call at Leicester House Sydney's residence and, by way of getting an introduction to the great man, sent in the ninth canto of the first book of the poem The poet's manoeuvre answered his best expectations After Sir Philip had read some stanzas he called his steward and ordered him to give the person who brought the verses £50 but upon reading the next stanza he ordered the money to be doubled The steward thought it his duty to make some delay in executing so sudden and lavish a bounty but upon reading one stanza more, Sir Philip raised his gratuity to £200 and commanded the steward to give it immediately, lest as he read further, he might be tempted to give away his whole estate

The story must be taken for what it is worth, but one thing is certain, that the poet frequently visited Sydney at his seat of Penshurst, in Kent, and was made in all respects a personal friend He introduced him to the famous Earl of Leicester, and afterward presented him to Queen Elizabeth, who appointed him her poet laureate The appointment carried with it a pension of £50 a year, which Spenser enjoyed until his death The original grant of the pension was discovered some years ago in the Chapel of the Rolls. The title of poet laureate was not, however expressly applied either to him or his two immediate successors

Taken all in all, Spenser was lucky, for a poet In the first place, his pension of £50 was no inconsiderable sum in those days Through the interest of Leicester and Sydney, he obtained a grant of 3,028 acres in the county of Cork, out of the forfeited lands of the Earl of Desmond He took up his residence there, with his wife and family and was visited, in his charming retreat, by Sir Walter Raleigh—a second Sydney in his love for poetry The rebellion of Tyrone, however, scattered his household gods, and Spenser and his family were obliged to fly, leaving in their haste everything behind them and what was the most lamentable part of the story an infant child was burnt with the house by the revengeful rebels

This broke Spenser's heart, and he died almost directly after his return to England, in the January of 1599, in the forty sixth year of his age An inn or lodging house in King street Westminster, is set down, on evidence which seems pretty conclusive, as the place of his death His remains were interred in Westminster Abbey, near those of Chaucer and the funeral expenses were defrayed by the E[illegible] of Essex It has been said that he [illegible] great poverty but there is no real found[illegible] for this statement He enjoyed his pen[illegible] to the day of his death, and he had too ma[illegible] friends at court to let him want.

Remarkable Hanging Affair.

The Rochester Union relates the following remarkable story, which the reader is not required to believe, without he has a mind to

Several years ago, when the West was a comparatively new country an individual presented himself at the door of a log grocery in the settlement of which we write and asked if there was a Judge in the place Upon being informed that the storekeeper himself was a Judge the stranger proceeded

Well, Judge, you see the facts of the case is this I war travelin along with a pardner down here a piece an he showed me a silver doller which he had Well I wanted the money and when he wasn t-lookin I popped him under the ear with my pistol Then I took his silver and tobacker and cum along alone but I got to thinkin' the matter, and I don t think I did just the right thing by my pardner My conshuns has been troublein me, and I think I ought to be hung Now, Judge, if it wouldn t be too much trouble, I d like to have you try me and have me hung If you doubt the facts in the case, there's the dollar I took from my pardner and you ll find his remains down the road a piece under a log I ll be obliged to you, Judge, if you'll have me hung

The Judge told the stranger to make himself comfortable over at the hotel, until he could send some men down the road to investigate the matter, and if they found the body, he would call a jury and try the stranger, as was desired. The dead man being found, the Judge summoned a jury and sent word to the stranger at the hotel, that if he would step over to the store, they would give him a trial

The stranger appeared immediately, shook hands with the Judge and jury, invited the Court to take a drink, and appeared grateful and satisfied with the proceedings

The trial proceeded socially and the tender hearted jury brought in a verdict of guilty of manslaughter in the first degree A look of anxiety which the stranger had worn up to this time, faded from his face as he stood up to receive his sentence You have been found guilty,' said the judge, 'of the crime of manslaughter for which you are undoubtedly penitent ' Here the stranger began to get anxious and uneasy

"And if ' proceeded the Judge, "it meets with your approbation we will try to hang you next Sunday morning, at 11 o clock A M In meantime, try to make yourself as comfortable as possible '

The stranger looked a little sad and the Judge asked him if he wasn t satisfied If there was anything he could do for him

Judge, I hate to be particular and fussy said the stranger, but havin the ager an fever the chills come on at 10 o clock in the mornin an if you could have me swung off before that I should feel obliged '

Of course ' said the Judge, 'we always respect a party's feelings No trouble at all Come round at 9 o clock, and may be we ll get through before church time "

Sunday morning at 9 o clock the stranger came out of the hotel and proceeded to the grocery There he met a deputation of citizens, one of whom threw a lariat over the limb of a tree, and as soon as the stranger had taken a chew of tobacco and shaken hands all round, they hauled him up

This little incident, says the Springfield Republican, illustrates the quality of some of the State's liquor, sold at its agencies Not long since a man walked into one of three stores in a Western town and inquired of the proprietor if he had any more brandy like the last he got there and was told he had "Well," continued the customer who was from a mountain town, ' I want to tell you about that last pint you sold me I went home late at night and hung the bottle up by the fireplace It was a middling cold night, and when I got up in the morning I found the bottle had dropped on the hearth and broken into a thousand pieces, but," continued the mountaineer, with animation, "the brandy was all right! there it hung on the nail, froze solider than thunder!"

The New York Sun points out to the Democracy their great opportunity It is to take possession of the country by making Charles Sumner their candidate and electing him next President.

Laborers and Monopolists

The Free Trade League, which is supported mainly by great importers in New York has issued a pictorial double-sheet with a view of burlesquing the tariff and impressing the people with free trade notions. Advertisements of importers appear plentifully in the sheet. The said importers are especially anxious for free trade, because they want to make money by importing and have no sympathy with the labor and industrial interests of the country. Sitting at New York they desire to be the favored persons through whose hands commodities may be transmitted to and from Europe, and to amass wealth by the operation. Hence they are anxious that the country shall be indoctrinated with free trade ideas, and to this end they expend large sums of money in keeping up the Free Trade League, and scattering its publications, of which this pictorial circular is one. In addition to pictures it essays arguments. And here is a specimen thereof:

In 1868, there were consumed in this country [illegible] tons of pig iron. The duty on iron was $9 a ton to which extent its price was increased. Thus the people paid $14 886,000, gold, additional, in the wholesale price, to say nothing of the vastly larger sum paid in the increased price of the manufactured iron. How much of this did the Government receive? It got only $744 900 for 95 per cent of the iron was made in this country, and only 5 per cent was imported.

The Government got revenue from only this 5 per cent—the amount imported—while the people paid the increased price on both the foreign and American iron. Of every $20 paid by the people in the increased cost, only $1 went to the Government, and $19 to the iron masters of Pennsylvania.

The whole gospel of free trade is here set forth. All the argument its advocates are able to produce is herein condensed. Now look at it. It is asserted that in the matter of the duty on iron nineteen dollars goes to the iron masters, while only one dollar goes to the Government and that monopoly is thereby fostered. This is absurdity. By far the larger part of the nineteen dollars which it is said the iron masters get goes to laborers in the form of wages. It gives them remunerative employment. And this is the interest which laboring men have in the protective system. Doubtless the iron companies make a profit but isn't it better that they should make a profit than that there should be no iron industry in this country and no wages for those who now work in it? Besides, the stimulation of home industry which thus results begets general prosperity. The same principle finds illustration in the manufacture of woolens, and in other leading industries. Prices may be somewhat enhanced by the tariff but the difference mainly goes into the pockets of workmen as wages for their labor. It is the most ridiculous nonsense to say that on every dollar which the Government gets by tariffs on these commodities the manufacturers get twenty dollars. Yet this is the best argument of the free-traders.

An American Proposal to Ask for Canada

The London Economist of recent date, has an article on the 'American proposal to ask for Canada.' What it has to say on the subject is summed up in the following:

> The Canadians may quit the empire by vote whenever they please. When they have quitted they may join whomsoever they choose. But any attempt to transfer them without their own consent, to make their consent the makeweight in any treaty, would cost the government which made the proposal to Parliament, its existence. The British people are not anxious to retain Canada, but they will defend it as long as it chooses to remain a colony and will neither cede nor sell it. The proposal is therefore, rejected from the beginning, and the moment that is comprehended it will cease to stand in the way of the labors of the Joint Commission.

This seems to be the general spirit of the British mind in regard to Canada. Great Britain will not negotiate with the United States for the cession of any part of her North American territory. She will however allow those provinces to establish an independent political existence if they desire it and after that they can choose their own connections.

The Joint Commission in all probability will not discuss this matter, for it is difficult to see how it can come before it for consideration. Any attempt to discuss it would be impracticable, and the American Commissioners will hardly allow such a visionary question to come up for a moment to embarrass their labors.

But the northwest boundary should be considered and settled at this time. That dispute has remained open long enough. Our right to San Juan and other disputed Islands should be asserted and maintained. This is the only territorial question that can properly come before the Joint Commission.

We scarcely know whether any party in the United States would be willing to take the responsibility of annexing Canada, even if annexation could be consummated at once, for as the Economist says,—"Canada would make [illegible] States, and the political leaders would [illegible] consider the election of their own man to the Presidency more advantageous than the addition to the ranks of the electors of [illegible] numbers of new Canadian electors of unknown sympathies, able favorites and a tendency to make geographical rather than party alliances."

Grant county has paid into the State Treasury the sum of $1,305 50. This was half the amount due. The Legislature kindly remitted the other half. In this transaction the following state of facts is presented, viz. First, the property of Grant county is assessed at a ridiculously low figure in order to reduce the amount of State taxes to be paid by that county. Second, the Legislature steps in and "relieves" the county from the payment of one half even of this small assessment. The whole tax due from Josephine county was remitted in the same way. Union county obtained similar 'relief.' Each of these counties has more than its just share of representation in the Legislature. All of them are Democratic. These beggar counties rule the State, and obtain exemption from taxation. Is that fair? Do the people of those counties which honestly pay their taxes [illegible] this very "Democratic" proceeding to continue?

The Albany (N Y) Evening Journal makes a good point against a contemporary which was complaining of Federal taxation by showing that during the last three years the Federal taxes collected in the Albany District have decreased more than one-half while the aggregate of taxes collected by the Democratic city of Albany is going up and up, and is now more than three times what it was in 1861. And it is just the same everywhere.

Dispatches say that many prominent persons have congratulated the President on his complete vindication in the San Domingo matter. He is coming out triumphantly from a storm of calumny and abuse, and will be sustained by the country. Those who have been defaming and denouncing him will be speedily covered with confusion.

Southern Disorders

There are those who insist that Congress has not constitutional power to suppress the Ku Klux,—just as they insisted that the Government had not constitutional power to suppress the rebellion. The New York Herald says that these learned expounders look to "the Constitution as it was;" and it proceeds to call their attention to the Constitution as it is, in this lucid style:

'The fourteenth amendment orders equal civil rights to all citizens and declares that all persons born or naturalized in the United States are citizens thereof and of the State in which they reside and it gives to Congress the power to enforce these and other provisions of this article by 'appropriate legislation.' The fifteenth amendment establishes equal suffrage or political equality for all citizens of all races and colors, and gives to Congress the 'power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.' The outrages referred to by the President in his message are to a great extent outrages against these civil and political rights of citizens of the Southern States of African descent. Congress, therefore has the power to enforce these citizens' rights by 'appropriate legislation' and Congress is left to its own judgment as to the legislation which will be 'appropriate in such cases in any part of the United States.'"

This brief but very appropriate argument covers the whole case. Congress has full power over the subject, and is sole judge as to what measures should be enacted to meet the requirements of the situation.

Senator Kelly lives. Leastwise, his Senatorial frank, covering numerous copies of Frank Blair's last revolutionary speech, brought to Oregon in the mails, would indicate as much. He has attempted no other service yet that we have heard of. Whether it was worth while to send him there for that, may be gravely doubted. He doesn't sit in the Senate for Oregon, he sits in that body on Oregon.

The Democracy

A NEW MOVE BY THE DEMOCRATS—ALL THE OLD HACKS TO BE THROWN OVERBOARD—TRUMBULL TALKED OF AS A CANDIDATE.

[Special Telegram to the Chicago Republican.]

WASHINGTON, March 21.—A prominent Republican from Illinois—an office holder under Lincoln at present part owner of the Springfield (Ill.) Journal, was in New York a few days ago, and while there met Sam Tilden, with whom he had a long conversation on political subjects. Tilden, it will be remembered, was one of the leading spirits of the New York convention of 1868, and the advocate of Hendricks, though he had been counted as a Chase man. In the course of the conversation, Tilden said the Democrats had about concluded not to attempt the election of any man identified with their party, but to nominate for next President such a man as Trumbull. He himself was strongly in favor of Trumbull but others preferred Judge Davis. At any rate, he considered it well understood that no such man as Hendricks or Pendleton would be nominated. The gentleman to whom I allude then came to Washington, where he met James C Robinson, who represents the Springfield (Ill.) district, Sam Marshall, and other prominent Democrats. They all talked as if they had previously considered the propriety of running Trumbull, and were all in favor of it. "But," said my informant to Robinson, "what will you do with Hendricks, and Pendleton, and Hoffman?" "Oh," replied Robinson, "God d—n that crowd, we want to kill them off anyhow!" Robinson then went on to say that the Democrats don't want to elect one of their own men next time anyhow. "These Southern fellows," said he, "are raising hell, and there's no way to stop them except to hang a lot of them—they want to have the war over again, and they must be put down. If that has to be done we want it to be done by a Republican, and not by a Democrat." These sentiments seemed to be generally concurred in by all present. It is understood that Mr Trumbull has not been consulted in regard to the use of his name, and his friends here doubt if he would allow it. But the facts I have stated are valuable as showing a desire on the part of leading Democrats for a new departure. Pendleton was here a few days ago and although he was warmly welcomed on the floor by his old associates he received no assurances of help as a Presidential candidate.

Stephen A Douglas was a member of the Senate Committee of Foreign Affairs when Mr Sumner was made its Chairman. Mr Sumner expressed to "Perley" a wish to secure his services as clerk but desired the assent of the Democratic members of the committee to his appointment. 'Perley' had criticised Douglas very severely, and thought he would probably oppose his appointment. "To ascertain his views," says "Perley," "I went to his house and was ushered into the library. The 'Little Giant' was shaving, I was informed, but would soon be down, and in a few moments he made his appearance in his shirt sleeves. I at once stated my errand, frankly alluding to my newspaper criticisms and concluding by asking if my appointment as clerk of the Committee on Foreign Relations would be acceptable to him. 'Acceptable,' said he, 'why of course it will be. My only objection to serving on the committee has been that I feared Sumner would send to Boston for a d——d free nigger for clerk, and I shall be delighted to have you in the committee room.'"

To whom it may concern: May it be known that whenever Congress of the United States of our glorious Republic reduces the price of postage stamps I will promise to reduce the price of paper collars to less than Twenty five Cents a box, and I have also on hand one of the largest stocks of Clothing and Gents Furnishing Goods in the city of Portland and defy competition. 'WHAT HAVE YOU TAKEN FOR IT?' said Mrs Laura Thompson to her friend Miss Lake, referring to a sick headache with which the young lady was continually afflicted. 'Oh,' said Miss L, 'I've taken cathartic pills enough to load a cannon.' 'Discard them,' said her friend, 'and try my medicine, PLANTATION BITTERS. Bile is the cause of the difficulty and I know by experience the Bitters is a certain cure for biliousness.' Miss Lake adopted Mrs Thompson's advice and was cured within a fortnight. She is now at the Metropolitan hotel and will confirm this statement.

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 10.—All day was consumed in hearing medical testimony for the defense in the Fair trial. It is doubtful if the case goes to the jury before Saturday evening.

The steamer Ajax, from Honolulu, with passengers and mails from Australia, due this morning is not yet telegraphed.

The weather is cold and foggy, wind northwest.

W H. Seward, Jr., J N. Knapp of the American Express Company, D H Osborne and their wives, who arrived from the East to day, will spend some months on this coast visiting Yosemite, Southern California, Oregon and various points of interest on the coast.

The Board of Supervisors this evening refused to reconsider the resolution accepting Col Von Schmidt's proposition for supplying the city with water from Lake Tahoe in return for $6 000,000 in bonds. Half a dozen other projects to supply this city with water were offered this evening and referred to the Committee on Water.

Attempted Suicide—Scalded to Death.

VIRGINIA, April 10.—A courtesan, named Blanche de Mante attempted suicide last evening by taking morphine, but owing to the timely arrival of a physician the attempt proved futile. This is her third attempt at suicide, but the interference of medical gentlemen has always succeeded in inducing her to remain a while longer in the Washoe country.

Yesterday morning a son of Colonel Elster was accidentally scalded, receiving injuries from the effects of which he died this evening.

"WHAT I KNOW OF FARMING." [illegible] ago Mr Lloyd Brooke of this city [illegible] a party of gentlemen that the [illegible] [illegible] interfered with the sodding to [illegible] and querying whether an applicat[illegible] and plaster would do any good [illegible] present suggested that Horace Gree[illegible] know all about such matters [illegible] Brooke had better write to him. Mr [illegible] write and in due time received an answer from Horace the original of which has been handed [illegible] as a curiosity of chirography. The first time we read it we didn't read it and the second at [illegible] resulted about as follows more or less:

Or I do [illegible] remedy for the mossing of [illegible] stride of [illegible] [illegible] soil is too much [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] My recommend fertilizers [illegible]

Yours,

The next attempt by guessing at what a few of the words ought to be was more successful [illegible]

Dr Sir:
My remedy for the mossing of a lawn [illegible] climate as yours would be undrainage [illegible] soil is too much saturated with water [illegible] the lime and plaster would be [illegible] remove the surplus water had best draw [illegible] but any land which is habitually wet [illegible] be underdrained, after that, apply warming fertilizers like guano or horse dung.

Yours,
HORACE GREELEY

All of which shows that Horace hath wisdom [illegible] form ng and in climate. His suggestion [illegible] ng away the surplus water and [illegible] draining any soil which is habitually [illegible] may be said to be wisdom in chunks.

CITY.

WHAT I KNOW OF FARMING.—Some time ago Mr. Lloyd Brooke, of this city, was saying to a party of gentlemen that the moss seriously interfered with the sodding to grass of his lawn, and, querying whether an application of guano and plaster would do any good. A gentleman present suggested that Horace Greeley would know all about such matters, and that Mr. Brooke had better write to him. Mr. Brooke did so, and in due time received an answer from Horace, the original of which has been handed to us as a curiosity of chirography. The first time we read it, we didn't read it, and the second attempt resulted about as follows, more or less:

[illegible] sej oemnds for the messing of a town in [illegible] of yarns r-o-e-r-e-l-d ve undeo [illegible] Yvo soil is too much situated rorth [illegible] tos evons and PleoCo rooraid be [illegible] abir the undios water bod blen [illegible] any soil which is bobstardly [illegible] undeo doained; after toot [illegible] tots Evono or Husedurry.
Yours, HOVOIE GOEGLZ.

A second attempt, by guessing at what a few of the words ought to be, was more successful, thus:

The remedy for the mossing of a lawn in such a climate as yours would be underdraining. Your soil is too much saturated with water. I think guano and plaster would be a good application after the surplus water had been drawn away, and after the soil which is habitually wet should first be underdrained; after that, apply warming fertilizers like guano or horse dung.
Yours, HORACE GREELEY.

A letter which shows that Horace hath wisdom in farming and in climate. His suggestion of drawing away the "surplus water" and of underdraining any soil which is "habitually wet," may be said to be wisdom in "chunks."

PROVISION MARKET.—The last number received of the San Francisco Commercial Herald, contains the following, in relation to provisions. "Imports from Jan. 1st to March 15th:

Bacon, pkgs	543	Hams, Oregon, pkgs	147
[illegible] bbls	25	Lard, do pkgs	215
[illegible] pkgs	112	Pork, do pkgs	559

No sooner than we get through importing butter and cheese from the east by rail, than it becomes necessary for us to draw supplies of bacon, hams and lard from Chicago, St. Louis, Cincinnati, etc. This is not creditable to our producers and ought to be remedied. Present high prices should draw out Oregon and interior supplies but we fear packers are holding back for higher prices in the future, which we fear they will not realize—certainly not, if supplies [illegible] to come forward as promised. [illegible] upon the market an invoice of 270 cases Chicago lard, put up by Fairbank, Peck & Co., in cans of 5 and 10 lbs. each, and [illegible] with lead foil, making a very [illegible] package, weighing 60 lbs. The quality of the lard is said to be superior. It is the first import of the kind, and probably will not be the last. It was all purchased by a lead[ing] jobber upon reserved terms, perhaps 17½c, [illegible] at 18c. We are now in receipt of liberal supplies of butter, cheese, and eggs, of superior quality, the former in rolls as well as in firkins. [illegible] to be the outside price for choice [illegible] of butter, and for best factory cheese, 15c [illegible] rate for fancy brands. The im[illegible] in the latter is quite a marked feature [illegible], and we hope to see more of it, and [illegible] the [illegible] trash with which our market has been glutted. Pork is scarce [illegible]; so also of bacon and lard. [illegible] hams, from Andrew Brown and Duffield, [illegible] Whittaker of St. Louis, Evans, [illegible] Cunningham of Cincinnati, Thomas [illegible] of Oregon and Chicago, Smith, [illegible] & Co. and John Y. Wilson & Co. of this [illegible] upon the market, quotable from 18c [illegible] according to brand and quality.

Bacon, Hams and Lard—Sales of Oregon sides [illegible] in cases, now held higher. Local [illegible] liberal selling moderately. The following prices approximate current rates at [illegible]: Bacon, breakfast, per lb., 15c; [illegible] hams, 13@13½c; do covered, 15c; [illegible] and kegs, 14@14½c.

[illegible] The market is supplied from [illegible] and local packers at our quotations, say: [illegible] extra clear, bbls., $30; do do hf bbls. $15; [illegible] bbl, $26; do prime mess, per bbl, [illegible] per bbl, $21@22; beef, salt, in [illegible] $14 to 18; smoked beef, 13.

[illegible] COMMON-SENSE GANG-PLOW.—Some [illegible] we spoke of a new gang plow—an Illi[nois invention] which Mr. Handsaker, of Canyon[ville] county, expected to receive at this [illegible] at Lebanon, Illinois. The plow arrived by last steamer, and yesterday [we saw] it at the agricultural warerooms of Messrs. Knapp, Burrell & Co. It is of very simple [construction], light, and, compared with most [gang plows], very cheap. The plows, two [in number], are made to be set in the ground or [raised] by a very simple and convenient lever [illegible]. Either one can be raised without [raising] the other. The driver rides in a seat [over a] wheel which is rigged like a castor, [and has] both plows before him—an arrangement [enabling] him to see at all times the work [they] are doing without moving either head or [body]. For simplicity of construction, manner of [gauging] the depth of furrow, setting to land or [illegible], [ease] of draft and cheapness, it ap[pears] superior to any gang ever offered in [this State]. Mr. Handsaker started south with it [yesterday], intending to exhibit and test it in every county on his way home. He has the right [to make] and sell in Oregon or to sell county rights. We would, at least, recommend farmers of the interior to examine it for themselves [and see how] it works. If it shall prove to possess all the advantages claimed for it, its intro[duction] will supply a great want in this State.

A VERY HANDSOME PRESENT.—Messrs. Knapp, Burrell & Co. lately received, at their letter of [advice] called it, "a stray piece of hardware," [from] New York. Upon opening the case, with [illegible], they found an elegant "Ice [Pitcher] of beautiful pattern and finished workmanship, [a present] from their New York correspondent, Charles Dimon. It was made by [the Meriden] (Connecticut) Britannia Works, [and must] have cost a good round figure, [judging by] the prices of table wares of similar [kind] as the means of comparison. The [pitcher] bears this inscription, beautifully engraved [on the] front: "K. B. & Co. Presented by Chas. Dimon, New York." The lucky recipients of the [present] are naturally very proud of it and propose to have it handsomely mounted on a pedestal [in their] office, for use in the first "heated term" [that] may come along.

SALE OF SCHOOL LANDS.—Yesterday evening's [Bulletin] says: "School land deeds were recorded [in the] office of seven this morning conveying [illegible] acres of land—160 acres of which is located [in] section 36, 120 acres in section 9, and 160 [acres] in each of the following sections: 35, 31 [and] 32. The aggregate consideration for the [whole] amounts to the sum of $1,480 only. These [deeds] are all dated March 31, 1871."

EXPORTS FOR FIRST QUARTER.—During the [first] quarter of this year, the shipments of leading articles of produce and provisions from this [port] to San Francisco, footed up as follows: Flour, qr sks, 207,031; wheat, sks, 11,037, oats, [sks], [illegible], bbls, 642; hlf bbls, 536; bacon, pkgs, 199; beef, bbls, 26; hams, pkgs, 155; butter, pkgs, 112; lard, pkgs, 235; pork, bbls, 593; [green] apples, pkgs, 350.

OREGON SHEEP.—The monthly report of the [Department] of Agriculture for February, in reviewing the annual returns of stock says: "A [decrease] is the number of sheep of five per cent. [is] noted. The only States showing increase are Delaware, Florida, Tennessee, Nebraska, Illinois and Oregon. The largest relative increase is 31 per cent. in Oregon, and 12 per cent. in California."

VESSELS ON THE WAY.—We learn from the San Francisco Commercial Herald of March 31st, that during the week previous the bark Emory and the ship Panama had been engaged to load with wheat at Portland for Cork for orders. The aggregate registered tonnage of these two vessels [is] 1,[illegible] tons, register. They are probably the [vessels] which were a short time ago mentioned [in] the [illegible] as having been engaged to load [at] this port.

STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING.—The stockholders [of] the Tualatin River Navigation Co. will hold [their] annual meeting at Oswego, at the principal [office] of the company, on Thursday, [the 13th], for the election of Directors and to [transact] other usual business.

BUSINESS NOTICE.—Dean & Bro. advertise lots [for] sale in Couch's Addition, which are said to be [cheap]. Persons desiring to invest should give [them a call].

SCHOOL MEETING.

QUESTION OF TAXES—LONG DISCUSSION—COLORED SCHOOL—ENLARGEMENT OF BUILDINGS, ETC.—INVESTIGATION OF REPORTS AND ACCOUNTS ORDERED.

At the adjourned meeting of the tax payers of District No. 1, at the Central school house, last evening, there was an unusually large attendance of the property holders, business men and persons specially interested in the public schools.

The meeting was called to order by the Chairman, Mr. Dennison; and the minutes of the last meeting were read, corrected and approved.

The Chairman stated the objects of the meeting in the order of the recommendations of the last Board of Directors.

DIRECTORS' AND CLERK'S REPORTS.

A motion was made by some gentleman whom the reporter could not distinguish in the dim light of the room, to adopt the reports of the late Directors and Clerk.

Pending this motion, Mr. J. Failing moved that the reports be referred to a committee of three, which was agreed to.

Messrs. E. D. Shattuck, P. C. Schuyler and L. Brooke were nominated and elected by the meeting as such committee.

QUESTION OF TAXATION—TWO AND A HALF MILLS ORDERED.

The Chairman stated the next business in order to be the question of the continuance of the colored school.

Judge Deady inquired what was the rate of taxation last year.

The Chairman—Two mills.

Judge—For the purpose of getting the question of the rate of taxation for the support of schools, before the house, I move that two mills on the dollar be levied.

Dr. Giltner moved to amend the motion so as to levy four mills.

The Chairman said that to meet the recommendations of the late Board of Directors, it will be necessary to raise a tax of about 4½ mills. The recommendations of the former Directors involve the expenditure of $34,000, of which $12,000 is for the purchase of grounds and new buildings. Last year, upon a two mill tax, the Directors found it necessary, at times, to borrow money to pay the teachers.

Judge Deady said the fault was not with the amount raised, but with the law which keeps the money in the treasury for months before it is distributed to the school districts. He was opposed to levying taxes for the purpose of teaching in the common schools branches of education not provided for by the law; creating high schools and teaching the higher branches to be paid for with money raised for and belonging to district schools. He would levy taxes only for the legitimate uses contemplated by law.

Dr. Giltner was in favor of providing liberally for the education of children, and would favor the levy of such taxes as would enable the children of poor men to get a good English education. If a child of a poor man who was unable to send him to school, had brains enough to master a good education, he was in favor of providing to give him a chance. The district school was provided for all children, and he would give all of them an opportunity.

Mr. J. Failing said he would rather give ten dollars for support of schools than one dollar for support of the jails. He desired to see every child acquire a common school education; but he also wanted equal rights dispensed. He did not want to see a high school supported at the expense of the common schools.

Dr. Giltner said he was not talking for his own children. He could educate them at his own private expense; but he felt an interest in the education of all children, and he was talking for the benefit of the child of the poor laboring man—the man who was not able to educate his children at the academies and colleges. If the poor man's child had the capacity to attain to an education, he thought it the duty of the general public to afford him a chance; and he was willing to pay a liberal tax for that purpose.

Judge Strong said that the question to be considered is not what shall be taught in the schools, but what does the law allow us to do? How much is it necessary to raise to carry on the school as the law contemplates. He thought, as last year upon a tax of two mills, the schools were carried on, an indebtedness was cleared off and surplus of $8,000 remains, two mills ought to suffice for this year. If we are going to build more houses, we may want a larger tax. He was willing to raise whatever amount may be necessary.

Rev. Mr. Atkinson, School Superintendent, said that so far as he could ascertain, there are between 700 and 800 children in the district who have no provision for school attendance for want of room. The district has 2,370 children enumerated, between the ages of four and twenty, and the accommodations only suffice for 1,560 in all the schools. It is not the question whether we shall have a high school—we have no such school. The one so-called is only of the grade of a grammar school. The question which we are to meet is whether we will provide for all the children. The great want is room for the small children—for primary schools. He was convinced that our school accommodations ought to be enlarged.

Dr. Giltner said when the two per cent. was raised last year he was in favor of a higher rate. There was then some question whether it was enough to provide for schooling all the children. He thought we ought to decide whether we want high grade schools, and he was in favor of liberal provisions in that direction. He called attention to the fact that the School Superintendent supported him in the statement that we have not sufficient provision for all the children of the district.

Mr. J. Failing asked, if there is not room enough for small children, why not provide for them in the common schools? He wished to call the attention of the meeting to the fact that there are not really so many to provide for as appear in the enumeration. Many under twenty are married or engaged already in the ordinary occupations of life; many of them are attending other schools, or not yet old enough to attend any. He could not think there were so many unprovided for as had been stated. We only want to provide for those who need and apply for education in our common schools. He was in favor of giving a common English education to all who apply and are entitled to it.

Mr. Ladd, the clerk, here asked a question of Mr. Failing, which we failed to catch.

Mr. Ankeny asked how much is the amount of taxable property in the district.

The Chairman—A little over $5,000,000.

Mr. Ed. Failing—(to Mr. Ladd, the Clerk) How much interest did you take in the schools last year, when you moved to levy only one half of one mill? [Laughter and applause.]

Mr. Ladd replied that he had two purposes in doing that. He had come here just like other men to do as he thought best and he was responsible for what he did and said. He thought there seemed to be here a lot of men who were determined to vote only a two mill tax and not say anything about what is to be done with it; whether the schools should be made to accommodate the children or not. He was able to school his own children and he did so, though he had sent them to every public school in the city. He could not now send them to the Harrison street school, near where he lived, because there was not room enough, and he knew that there were over a hundred children in South Portland who could not get into that school.

Judge Strong thought that if there are 2,370 children enumerated, 1,560 would be a large attendance. The business question is, however, what do we want to do in order to provide for all the children, whether there be twenty or one thousand excluded? He was in favor of doing whatever may be shown to be necessary to provide for all, though it might cost ten mills; but he was opposed to buying anything we don't need. He would go for a good common school education in our common schools, and nothing more.

The Chairman, Mr. Dennison, said that when he went out of office, two years ago, the schools were crowded. He had seen 80 children in one room, with only one teacher; and the schools had certainly not grown smaller since then. The colored school is the most comfortable in the city, it had one teacher with only 17 or 18 scholars. In the other schools there cannot be less than 40 pupils to each teacher. The estimates for the expenses of this year are higher than those of last year; repairs and enlargements of school houses are needed; incidental expenses will be greater; the $8,000 on hand will be expended by the end of the present quarter, and then there will be several months during which there will be no money. He thought it policy to raise a larger sum than would be procured from a two mill tax.

Judge Deady was willing to raise all that may be needed—if two mills were not enough he would favor a larger tax; but he objected particularly to undertaking to maintain a high school with common school money. He believed that upon the enlarged assessment of this year, two mills would be sufficient. He was willing to enlarge the Harrison street school house, but thought a two mill tax would do that, and pay all other necessary expenses, too. He did not think there were over 1,000 children who require or want school room. If the house now used for a high school were used to its capacity as a common school, there would, he thought, be room enough.

Rev. Mr. Atkinson admitted that the schools are not well graded; that some room is wasted, and the rooms are not altogether fitted as they should be to afford the greatest comfort; but he did not think the houses could accommodate over 1,000, while he believed that certainly not less than 1,500 require to be provided for.

Mr. P. C. Schuyler moved to amend by substituting 2½ mills for 2 mills.

Judge Deady accepted the amendment.

The chairman put the question first on Dr. Giltner's amendment—to raise 4 mills—and it was lost.

The question was then put on Mr. Schuyler's motion—to raise 2½ mills—and it was agreed to.

COLORED SCHOOL.

Judge Strong moved that the colored school be continued, provided that a colored teacher shall be employed.

Judge Deady moved to amend Judge Strong's motion by striking out the clause relating to the employment of a colored teacher, which was agreed to.

The motion as amended was then adopted.

PURCHASE OF GROUNDS.

The chairman stated that the late directors had recommended the purchase of the balance of the block—four lots—on which the Harrison street school house stands, that three of the lots belong to Mrs Birmingham, and that she asked $3,000 for them; and that the directors had not stated whether the owner of the other lot would sell. He further stated that the entire block adjoining the Harrison street school house could be bought for $12,000; and that a block in Caruthers addition could be bought for $6,000.

On motion of Judge Deady the Directors were instructed to enlarge the Harrison street schoolhouse in accordance with the recommendation of the late Directors.

Mr. J. B. Upton moved that the Directors be instructed to purchase a block in Caruthers' Addition at $2,000 if south of Sherman street, and $3,000 if north of that street—lost.

Judge Deady moved that the Directors be instructed to examine into the matter of the eligibility of blocks for purchase and report at an adjourned meeting—agreed to.

AN INVESTIGATION ORDERED.

On motion of Judge Deady the committee to whom was referred the reports of the late Directors and Clerk, be instructed to examine, also, and report upon the reports of the Directors and Clerk, submitted at the annual meeting of 1869.

It was agreed, upon motion of Dr. Giltner, that when the meeting adjourn, it adjourn to meet again on the first Monday of May at 8 o'clock P. M., at the Central schoolhouse.

The meeting then adjourned.

AMUSEMENTS.

CONCERT.—This evening, at Philharmonic Hall, the concert by the 23d Infantry Band, the Mozart Glee Club, and other volunteers, for the benefit of the Library of the Musical Institute, will take place. The Vieuxtemps Brothers have perfected the arrangements for this concert with great care, and it will no doubt be one of the best of the season. We are requested to announce that Mr. James Cooke and Mr. J. H. Vinson, of the Dramatic Company, will contribute to the entertainment.

ORO FINO THEATER.—To-night the fine comedy of "Used Up, or There's Nothing in It," will be produced. There are two splendid characters in this play—Mr. Bates as Sir Charles Coldstream, a dual character; and Mr. Vinson as the Blacksmith, in which he is certainly first rate. After the play there will be an excellent melange of songs and dances.

BENEFIT BALL.—The Emmet Guard have determined to give a ball next Monday evening for the benefit of William Franklin, who is a cripple for life in consequence of being shot last July. This man is a really worthy object of charity, and we trust that our citizens will respond liberally to the efforts of the Emmet Guard to relieve his wants.

ARRIVAL OF THE STEAMER IDAHO.—The steamer Idaho, Capt. Thos. Stothard, from San Francisco, arrived last night at 11 o'clock. She left San Francisco April 5th 11:30 A. M.; crossed the Columbia bar April 10th, 5 A. M., and arrived at Astoria 8 o'clock A. M. The following is her list of passengers: R H Morrell, S M Johnson, S N Fronk, E A Hawley, J S Chandler, P G Smith, R C Wheeler, Otis Sprague, J Coon, F Hoffman, Chas Sprague, W Sprague, Mrs E Tinkman, Mrs W Beehan, J O Belt, G Mitchell, U S A, Mrs E L Mick, L Hofen, L Gosliner, David Love, J Cronan, J Tullis, Gen L Baum, A B Meacham, J C Baldwin, G J Ainsworth, J W Gaines and family, R Brown, D L Noggle, H E Street, M P Berry, J J Gilbert, W T Franklin, A B Peters and wife, G H Clarke, T Charman, Rev I D Driver and wife, J Kennelly, J Jacobson, F H Barrow, J K Laing, P T Gibson, G W Stimpson, H E Carey, T F O'Neil, Mrs M Waugh, Mrs S T Church, J Robertson, J Jones, Miss A Booth, Mrs S Giberson, T Moore, Jas Liddle, W H Menefee and wife, W Liddle, C T Morris and wife, Mrs Gen Adair, J Chandler and family, Mrs L D Hanson, Miss Hoffman, J D Weelerok and Wife, Mrs M V Fox, W C Smith, C Loomis and sister, Sister Mary Inez, Sister Choyoston, Sister Barnabe, Miss A Whitcomer, E Weisgerber and wife, Jas Norton, G M Menefee, S R Welden, A Murdock, Col E E Rice, E P Thompson, R N Fisher, H L Tucker, S F Darby and family, A C Mitchell, L Baum, A W Flora K E Covy, Mrs Tucker, M Sadel, Col West, W, F & Co's Messenger, and 135 in the steerage

FERRY CABLE.—Mr. Knott has had a serious time with his ferry cable, against which several snags lodged during the high water. The other day the Portland end was recovered, but upon attempting to take it up, it was found to be loaded down in the middle by a sunken snag, and it could not be got up by under-running. Yesterday, a number of men, under the direction of Mr. Sam. Douglass, worked the greater part of the day, with tackle, pulling the cable ashore at East Portland. When it is again stretched it will be on the new boat and probably at the upper landing on the East side.

SHIPPING AGENCY.—We are glad to note the success which seems to be attending the shipping agency established in this city recently by Messrs. Stephenson & Clarke. They have just shipped a crew for the brig Madawaska, and they are now making up a crew for the ship Prince of Wales. Heretofore vessels have had to wait till they could ship men from San Francisco, in case of desertion of the crew with which they came into port.

N. P. R. R.—RESIGNATION AND APPOINTMENT.—We learn that Capt. W. C. Walker, Superintendent of construction of this division of the Northern Pacific Railroad, has resigned his position and that he will go at once to California to resume a former lucrative position. Mr. Geo D. Shannon has been appointed to the place made vacant by Capt. Walker's resignation.

VIOLATION OF REVENUE LAW.—Dr. Francis G. Bryan, of Salem, who was indicted by the late U S. grand jury for practising medicine without having paid Federal license, was arraigned before Judge Deady yesterday. He pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and the costs of the proceedings.

INSANE ASYLUM.—The contractor, Mr. W. L. Higgins, for building an addition to the Insane Asylum, has got the frame raised. The addition is placed on the west side of the old building in the form of the letter T and is 34x74 feet, the connecting stem being 48 feet long.

NO WONDER.—So many worthless medicines are advertised for the cure of various diseases, and when tried "found wanting," that the invalid loses all faith in specifics. We have yet to learn however of the first failure of WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY, to cure coughs, colds and pulmonary disease.

The Purest and Safest.

The efficacy of Hostetter's Celebrated Stomach Bitters as a specific for recruiting the enfeebled body and cheering the desponding mind has passed into a proverb. In the United States it is marvellous tonic, has borne down all opposition and eclipsed all rivalry, the demand for it has annually increased in a heavier and heavier ratio for years, until, at last, the regular sales of this preparation exceed those of all other stomachics combined. Eminent members of the medical profession and hospital surgeons without number, have candidly admitted that the pharmacopœia of the faculty contains no prescription that produces such beneficial effects in dyspepsia, general debility and nervous diseases as Hostetter's Bitters. To use the language of a venerable physician of New York, "The Bitters are the purest stimulant and the safest tonic we have." But the uses of the great vegetable antidote are much more comprehensive than such praise would imply. As a preparatory antidote to epidemic disease, a genial stimulant, a promoter of constitutional vigor, an appetizer, a stomachic, and a remedy for nervous debility, no medicinal preparation has ever attained the reputation of Hostetter's Bitters. It is the household tonic of the American people, and in all human probability will be for centuries to come. The magnates of science recognize its merits, and that it is emphatically the medicine of the masses, is proven by its vast and ever increasing sales

DECISION IN U S DISTRICT COURT

BY JUDGE DEADY

Where a judgment is given in an action at law for the recovery of the possession of real property, and a bill in equity is filed by the defendant therein to stay proceedings, and notice given of an application for a provisional injunction to enjoin the enforcement of the judgment, the plaintiff in the judgment is in no way prohibited or restrained from enforcing the same, until an injunction is actually granted and served, or he has notice of the order allowing it.

A provisional injunction will not be granted to restrain the plaintiff in an action at law from enforcing his judgment, where it appears that between the filing of the bill and the time of the application for the injunction the judgment had been enforced by execution.

An injunction requiring a party to do a particular thing, as to surrender the possession of certain premises, is never allowed before final hearing.

In case of a bill in equity to stay proceedings at law or a cross bill, where the plaintiff in the action at law or original bill is beyond the jurisdiction of the court, the court will order the subpœna to appear to be served upon the attorney of such absent plaintiff; but when the judgment in such action at law has been enforced, the authority of the attorney to represent the absent party is at an end, and such order will not be made.

United States Circuit Court for the District of Oregon Saturday, April 8, 1871

Jacob Kamm vs Benjamin Stark. In equity. Motion for Provisional Injunction.

On February 14, 1871, Benjamin Stark obtained judgment in this court in an action at law for the recovery of the possession of the [illegible] half of lot 3 in block 27, in the city of Portland.

On February 26th, Kamm filed a bill in equity in this court against Stark setting forth certain facts and circumstances from which he claimed that in equity he was entitled to the premises, and praying that Stark might be compelled to release his claim to the premises and that in the mean time an injunction might be allowed to restrain Stark from enforcing the judgment for the recovery of the possession. On the same day that the bill [illegible] notice was given to the attorney of Stark in the action at law, that on March 8th application would be made to one of the judges of this court for the provisional injunction prayed for in this bill, and also that motion would then and there be made for an order to serve the subpœna in this suit on W. W. Page, the attorney of Stark in the action at law.

On March 8th and 9th the matter was heard [illegible] papers, when it appeared from the affidavit of Kamm that Stark was a non resident of the district, and could not be found therein, [illegible] that W W Page, Esq., was his attorney in the action at law.

Stark's attorneys (Messrs Page & Hill) [illegible] present but declined to appear, suggesting that it appeared from the records of the court, to-wit the præcipe and execution [illegible] Stark vs Kamm that the judgment [illegible] enforced and that therefore they [illegible] no longer the attorneys of Stark in that [illegible]. Upon inspection of these papers it appears that a writ of possession issued to [illegible] the judgment in question in pursuance of a præcipe filed by Stark's attorneys [illegible] February 27th, and that in obedience [illegible] the Marshal of the District on the [illegible] day, dispossessed Kamm and put Stark in possession by delivering the same to his attorneys.

[illegible] for Kamm in reply to the suggestion that Stark had been put into possession upon his execution, it was too late to enjoin the enforcement of the judgment, insisted that from the time of service of notice of motion for injunction until the hearing [illegible] right to enforce his judgment [illegible] such service, was in some way suspended and that consequently the issuing [illegible] of the writ of possession [illegible] disregard of the authority of this [illegible] of Kamm's rights and should [illegible] nullities.

[illegible] this extraordinary proposition [illegible] no authority except Barb[illegible] which lays down the rule that [illegible] party has not been regularly [illegible] injunction, he is liable for a [illegible] fact he had notice of its being granted.

[illegible] this is an application for an injunction [illegible] the defendant for a breach [illegible] knowledge that it was granted and before service of it. And if this were otherwise, certainly the authority is not in point unless it be further shown that notice of intention to apply for an injunction is equivalent in law to the granting of it—at least until the application is denied. If such were the doctrine in regard to the effect of an application for an injunction, the granting of provisional injunctions to restrain a defendant until the final hearing could never have been necessary. Upon the filing of a proper Bill with a prayer for a perpetual injunction and service of a subpœna, there would be an application for an injunction certainly entitled to as much consideration and effect as a mere motion for a temporary one.

The fact is, the plaintiff is too late to enjoin Stark from enforcing his judgment for possession. It is already enforced and it is now physically impossible to prevent it. [illegible] a provisional injunction now issue to restore the possession of the property to Kamm. An injunction is never granted, requiring a party to do a particular thing until after final hearing and decree. Stark has the legal title to this property and lawful possession under the judgment and process of this court. If Kamm wished to have the proceedings at law [illegible] so as to enable him to retain the possession until the determination of a suit in equity to establish his title, he should have commenced in time, and not delayed until Stark had judgment and possession under it. [illegible] notice had to be given of the motion for injunction but that notice might have been shortened upon application to the judge to one day or even less time if necessary. [illegible] ten days elapsed after judgment, before the notice was given, and moreover, as Kamm had no defence to the action at law he should have filed his bill and asked for an injunction as soon as the action for the possession was commenced against him. The [illegible] applied or must be denied [illegible] service of the [illegible] considered. In the [illegible] case of a Bill to stay proceedings at law and in case of a cross Bill [illegible] at law or in the original Bill [illegible] beyond seas—the practice was upon motion of the complainant to order service of the subpœna to be made upon the attorney for his absent client (Smith's Chan 116 665). The same practice ex necessitate rei prevails in the U S courts when the plaintiff in the action at law or original Bill is a non resident of the State where the court is held and cannot be served personally therein. (Conk. Tres 143.)

The motion may be and usually is made ex parte (Smith's Chan cited above) and regularly the subpœna should be taken out before it is made. In the U. S. courts, notice of an application for an injunction is required by statute to be given in all cases. On this account it would seem necessary, when service of the subpœna is made upon the attorney to serve it before the application for an injunction can be made, because until the service of the subpœna or at least the allowance of the order for serving it there is no one within the jurisdiction of the court to whom notice of such application can be given.

[illegible] subject of the controversy must be the same in the action at law and the suit in equity, because the court cannot presume the attorney who represents a party in one cause to be his representative in another except for the identity of the subject of the litigation. Hitner vs Suckley (4 Wash C C Rep 465). Assuming for the present that the subject of the controversy in this suit and the action at law are identical, the only question to be considered upon this application, is whether or not the relation of attorney and client still subsists between the defendant Stark and Mr Page. It is shown that it did exist in the action at law. Upon the facts, is such relation presumed to continue after judgment and if so, how long and for what purpose.

Under the Code, the authority of an attorney in an action continues unless there be a change during the pendency thereof and for three years after judgment for the purpose of receiving payment and acknowledging satisfaction of the same. (Or. Civ Code, § 1007.) At common law the authority of an attorney continued until judgment and for a year and a day afterwards to sue out execution and for a longer term if the execution be continued (1 Aelly Prac, K. B., 67). An attorney's authority determines with the judgment or at least with the issuing of the execution within the year. Jackson vs Bartlet (8 John 367). His power after judgment extends only to the issuing of execution and receiving the debt. Ch J Kent, in Kellogg vs Gilbert (10 John., 221).

From these authorities and others that might be cited, it seems not to admit of question, that an attorney's authority ceases with the obtaining of judgment except for the purpose of assuming execution and acknowledging satisfaction, and that whenever the judgment is enforced or satisfied by execution or otherwise it ceases absolutely.

In this case the execution was issued, executed and returned before the application for the order to serve the subpœna on Mr Page, was made. But Page's authority as an attorney in the action at law being then at an end as to that he was no longer the attorney of the party. True it may or may not be, that Mr. Page is Stark's attorney in other matters or even upon a general retainer. That matters not so far as this motion is concerned. To authorize an order permitting service of the subpœna to be made upon Page for Stark, and thereby give this Court jurisdiction over the person of the latter it must appear that Page is now in fact the attorney of Stark in an action at law, in which the complainant now seeks and may be entitled to enjoin further proceedings.

Now, the fact is there is no action at law pending between these parties concerning this property. There was once, but Kamm took no steps to enjoin the proceedings therein until the action had ripened into a judgment, and that had been enforced. For this reason there is no longer an attorney of the plaintiff in that action upon whom to serve the subpœna in that suit so as to enable the plaintiff herein to maintain the same and enjoin the proceedings in such action nor would it be of any avail to the complainant in this respect, if there was such an attorney, or if he had service on Stark in person because the latter having prosecuted his action to judgment and obtained possession of the property by execution thereon, there are no further proceedings which can be had therein, and consequently there is nothing to enjoin.

In what has been said it is of course assumed that an attorney cannot be deemed the representative of an absent party so as to be considered capable of receiving service of the subpœna for him, only so long and so far as authority as attorney for such party exists and extends. Mr Page's authority as attorney for Stark in the action of Stark vs Kamm having necessarily ceased with the termination of the proceeding—the enforcement of the judgment therein—he is no longer his representative touching the subject matter of that action.

Upon the question as to whether Mr Page is still attorney for Stark, counsel for Kamm made the point, that Stark's judgment at law was not presumed to be yet satisfied because it did not appear that the plaintiff's costs and expenses in the action had been paid or collected. The entry of judgment was not read on the hearing but in the absence of anything to the contrary I suppose it is proper to suppose that the judgment was given for costs and expenses as well as possession of the property. The præcipe directs the execution to issue to put Stark in possession in accordance with the judgment. Nothing is said in it about costs. The execution contains no clause concerning the costs and expenses. If there was a judgment for costs and expenses and it was intended to enforce it, a clause to that effect should have been inserted in the execution. The writ was executed by putting Stark into possession, and returned on February 28. Under this state of facts I think it reasonable to conclude that if there was any judgment for costs, it must be considered satisfied.

But admitting that there was a judgment for costs and expenses, which remains unsatisfied, and that therefore Page is still Stark's attorney in respect to the judgment he would only be so, so far as it remains unsatisfied. As to the title and possession of the property which is the subject of this suit, the judgment is satisfied. They are no longer in litigation in the action at law, and Page is not therefore Stark's attorney in respect to them. The subject matter of this suit is not the costs and expenses of the action at law, but the title and possession of the real property, and as to these there is no judgment pending between the parties.

Cheap Water Pipe.

"THE ASPHALTUM PRESSURE PIPE COMPANY, of San Francisco having purchased of the patentees the sole right to manufacture on this coast are now making an article at their works at Alameda Point that will supply the general want of a cheap and durable water pipe. The invention originated in France where these pipes are extensively used as well as in Germany, in fact all over Europe almost entirely superseding for all ordinary purposes the use of iron. It is no new thing having been in use twenty years.

Its Durability.

Being imperishable and insensible to atmospheric influence or chemical properties of the earth it never changes and is consequently much more durable than iron which corrodes and in time leaks.

It is a Non-Conductor,

And will not freeze except at a remarkably low temperature and even the [illegible] power is greater than that of frozen water. In warm weather it acts as a cooler for water passing through it.

Neutrality to Acids and Alkalis.

This pipe is not affected by acids and alkalis nor is it affected by galvanic currents—consequently is invaluable in conducting telegraph wires under ground through tunnels and under bridges.

Elasticity

The elasticity of this pipe prevents its bursting from outward shocks or concussions. The interior of the pipes being glazed are as smooth as porcelain, and consequently are never clogged by adhering sediment.

Lightness

The mean weight of these pipes to iron is as one to five which not only facilitates handling but reduces the cost of transportation.

Laying the Pipe

Is a simple matter—can be laid by any laboring man of ordinary intelligence but the Company if required will always furnish a competent person free of expense to oversee the proper laying of the pipe. Contracts taken for any required length of pipe from water or mining companies, and warranted to stand according to contract.

Pipe Under Pressure

Can be seen at the office of the Company. We are the only parties manufacturing this pipe on the Pacific Coast under this patent. All other offered is spurious and an infringement.

Cheapness.

The cost when laid, including connections, is about one quarter that of lead and one half that of iron.

We manufacture this pipe in lengths of twelve feet, and ship it everywhere, by all sorts of conveyances—no special care being required. We manufacture it of any size from one to twelve inches.

Pressure.

We manufacture according to the pressure required from 1 to 600 pounds to the inch, and guarantee it to stand the pressure.

Prices

1 inch	10 cents per foot
2 inch	20 " "
3 inch	30 " "
4 inch	40 " "
5 inch	50 " "
6 inch	60 " "
8 inch	$1 00 "
10 inch	$1 25
12 inch	$1 50

For pipe capable of resisting a pressure of 160 lbs to the square inch.

This pipe being made of a combination of paper canvas, and asphaltum in lengths of twelve feet should not be confounded with moulded asphaltum pipe in lengths of four feet.

LAND DEPARTMENT OREGON & CALIFORNIA RAILROAD COMPANY.

SALEM, OREGON October 22, 1870

THE FOLLOWING STATEMENT IS MADE FOR information of all concerned:

First—Congress has granted to the Company all alternate sections of the public lands designated by odd numbers within a distance of thirty miles on each side of the railroad excepting lands to which a pre-emption or homestead claim had attached prior to the withdrawal by Government of the lands co-terminous with the first division of located line from East Portland to Jefferson, at [illegible] 1870 [illegible] second division of located line from Jefferson to a point six miles south of Roseburg May 1870 and from the last named point to the California line 1870.

Second—Persons who have in good faith pre-empted or homestead claims to any tract on an odd numbered section can purchase the same from the Railroad Company at the Government price of $1 25 per acre in greenbacks and upon very favorable terms if they so desire by filing an abandonment of their claim in the U S Land Office blanks for which will be furnished by the Land Agent of the Company. Such purchase from the Company has these advantages over a purchase from the Government. The party can leave the land if necessary; he can sell the land or mortgage it; he is saved the payment of lawyers or agents fees and expenses of witnesses to go to the Land Office to prove up his claim; he can get his title perfect in less time and he can buy on credit at a low rate of interest.

Third—No sales will be made by the Company until the land is listed over to it by the United States Land Commissioner and Secretary of the Interior.

Purchasers are thus assured that the title they obtain is perfect.
